CHOICES

IN LIFE

*Success in life

The Glory That is Greenwich

WE at Greenwich have a dream. A dream of Pakistan as a major industrial and economic power in South Asia, with a standard of living comparable to that of the First World. We visualize a future in which poverty, hunger and illiteracy would have been consigned to the dustbin of history. To some, it would appear to be a utopian ideal; to us, it is a cherished, and indeed, an attainable goal.

Indeed we realize that such a radical economic transformation is only possible through the proper development and utilization of Pakistan's human resource. Greenwich University has been striving to provide just this kind of meaningful education. The role of a university should not be restricted to churning out graduates equipped with a smattering of a few subjects. The dynamics of higher education have undergone major changes in recent years. Now it is expected of universities to provide leadership for a country in all aspects of human endeavour. The stewardship of a state, including the management of its complex economic policies, cannot be entrusted to the ill-informed individuals with myopic visions. We need men and women who have confidence in themselves, and also faith in a splendid future for Pakistan.

We at Greenwich are fully alive to this need, and determined to contribute our bit towards the progress and prosperity of Pakistan. Several of our alumni, holding positions of responsibilities in various national and multinational organizations across Pakistan, and abroad, testify to the earnestness of our endeavours in the various disciplines of higher education.

I am indeed very happy to learn that Greenwich is holding its convocation on March 24, 2007.

In this day of globalization the role of education cannot be over emphasized. All Stake - holders have to realize that Pakistan will never be able to get out of the quagmire of socio-economic backwardness with out bringing about qualitative and quantitative improvements in our education system.

Views in this perspective, universities, both in the public and private sectors could play a significant role in changing the destiny of the entire nation. Time, however, is of the essence, and we need to move fast.

I wish Greenwich University success in all its endeavors towards providing quality education in Pakistan.

It gives me much pleasure to learn that Greenwich University is holding its Convocation 2007.

It is indeed gratifying that Greenwich University has been holding its Convocation with such regularity, which bears testimony to their earnestness in promoting the standard of tertiary level education in Pakistan.

In a fiercely competitive world, the traditional concepts of University education have also undergone significant and rapid changes. Academic excellence without soul is a luxury that Pakistan, as an enlightened, moderate, progressive, and forward-looking Islamic community, simply cannot afford.

Indeed we realize that such a transformation is possible only through development, and utilization of human resource, which Greenwich University has been striving to provide by imparting meaningful education and attaining its set goals.

I wish the management, the faculty and the graduating students of Greenwich University, all success in their pursuits.

At the end of the academic session you must have realized, there is really no short cut to success in life. Therefore, I congratulate all the graduating students on the successful completion of their final studies who are now poised to step out into the practical world.

I have great faith in the educated youth of Pakistan, as the future of our nation actually lies in its hands. It is indeed your moral obligation to use the knowledge, which you have acquired at Greenwich University, to try and bring about qualitative improvement in the lives of your countrymen.

I wish you success in all your future pursuits.

It gives me great pleasure to learn that Greenwich University is holding its convocation on March 24, 2007.

A Convocation indeed, is a day for introspection and stock taking of your achievements in the past. It is also a day to make new resolutions for a better tomorrow.

Providing leadership in various branches of learning falls largely on our universities, both in public and private sectors. Therefore, the government will react positively to any initiative taken by the private sector universities in bringing about academic excellence in Pakistan.

I am confident that the talented and dedicated faculty at Greenwich University must not only have equipped you with sound knowledge of various disciplines, but more importantly, fortified you with the right kind of human and moral values to discharge responsibilities towards the community

May Allah bless you in all your noble endeavors.

I am pleased to learn that Greenwich University is holding its Convocation on March 24, 2007.

An academic calendar constitutes high spot in the academic calendar of a University. I wish to felicitate the management of Greenwich university for their professionalism in observing the sanctioning of their own university calendar.

For a long time in the past higher education was kept on back-burner sadly, not by default, but by design. While the present government has managed to arrest their regressive attitude, a lot of precious time has been lost in the process.

I appeal to all stake-holders, particularly the universities, to come forward and play a more pro-active role in the attempts. Higher Education Commission has been playing to put the system back on trade.

Greenwich University falls under "X" category. It needs to improve its status to "W" category within next 1^{1/2} and 2 years.

I commend the management and faculty of Greenwich University for this laudable efforts they are making in this respect.

Academic traditions take time and effort to evolve; I wish the graduating students all the success as they step out of the portal of their alma mater. I am sure Greenwich University has fully equipped you to cope with the challenges of the life that lie ahead.

In Pakistan more than seventy percent of the population is totally illiterate. Now, it is indeed your moral obligation to use the knowledge which you have acquired at Greenwich University to bring about improvement in the lives of your countrymen.

I assure the management and faculty of Greenwich University of our full cooperation in all their earnest efforts to promote the standard of teaching.

Message

A Convocation represents a landmark in the academic life of a graduating student. Paradoxically, it marks the end of one journey and the beginning of another – the turbulent expedition of life itself.

It is a day not only of rejoicing but also of thanksgiving, both for the graduating students and their proud parents.

It is also a day for some serious reflection; an occasion not merely to bask in the glory of one's personal achievements, but also to try and look at the larger picture. In a country which has an appalling rate of illiteracy, university education is the privilege of only the fortunate few.

We at Greenwich have discarded the obsolete approaches to education where learning was confined to classrooms, laboratories, and libraries. We have a more innovative, more dynamic, and more comprehensive approach to education.

Our graduates are exposed to a variety of formal and informal learning situations, where they are trained to cope with all kinds of stressful situations, without losing their equanimity and composure.

May Allah bless you!

INTRODUCTION

GREENWICH UNIVERSITY, established under an act of Sindh Government, is recognized and approved by the Higher Education Commission (HEC) as an autonomous university.

Greenwich creates an ideal atmosphere for academic growth — an encouraging ambience, a well-equipped computer lab, a library, and most importantly, a competent body of faculty which compares with the best available anywhere in Pakistan. Since we believe in a student-based approach to education, we do not restrict learning to the text books and classrooms. We provide plenty of opportunities to our students to interact with people in business and industry.

We agree with Francis Bacon that travel is an important aspect of learning to see how people in other countries live, work, and spend their leisure. We have been taking our students on cultural and sports expeditions to various foreign lands. So far, we have travelled to England, South Korea, Dubai and most recently Malaysia. But when it comes to setting goals, academic or otherwise, we believe sky is the limit.

Location: Greenwich University is situated in a serene and posh area of the city, over-looking the Arabian Sea.

The purpose-built campus is equipped with a state-of-the-art computer laboratory, with branded computers and all the related softwares. No university can function meaningfully without an adequate library support. The corpus of books in our library is always increasing with the induction of latest arrivals of books, magazines and research journals to cater to the varied needs of the students and the faculty.

While priority at Greenwich is rightfully given to the pursuit of excellence in all aspects of academic endeavour, various co-curricular activities considered essential to the development of a rounded personality also receive due attention. Besides gymnasium and a jogging track, enough space is designed for students to involve in different indoor and outdoor games such as basketball, badminton, snooker, throw ball, table tennis and cricket etc. A spacious cafeteria serves the purpose of refreshment, socialisation and recreation for the young and industrious students.

A useful linkage is also maintained between Greenwich and the relevant fields of business and industry to keep our students up-to-date about the trends in the market. Job-placement and internship programs form a part of this ongoing dialogue.

Conscious of the fact that the human resource is the most precious asset of Pakistan, we aim to produce individuals who are trained to cope with the challenges of life, in a world where only the fittest and the most competent can survive.

With the emergence of the new world order, Pakistan is poised to play a major role as a bridge between the Islamic block, and the industrialized countries of the west. To meet these challenges, Pakistan needs men and women who are not only equipped with the knowledge of modern times, but are also steeped in our rich Islamic traditions. It augurs well for the future of our country that education in general, and higher education in particular, is now finally getting the priority it deserves at the hands of educationists in the government. But in order to meet the rapidly expanding requirements of our business and industry, government efforts need to be supplemented by the private sector universities. We, at Greenwich, are fully alive to this need, and determined to contribute towards the development of our beloved country. We invite all those who share this vision, to join us in promoting this noble cause.

The Greenwich Experience

Greenwich is not merely a place where formal education is imparted and received. Greenwich has its own distinctive lifestyle. That is why a Greenwich graduate always stands out in a crowd. Greenwich provides a living academic experience.

GREENWICH UNIVERSITY DEGREE

Greenwich University has produced its degree document with the utmost care and sanctity. It is designed by the University and printed by Pakistan Security Printing Corporation (Pvt) Ltd. (PSPC). The need for maximum security necessitated the production of this document in PSPC.

The security measures taken in the production of this document include all rag parchment paper containing PSPC watermark logo as well as the hidden visibility of relevant marks. The durability of the paper used guarantees a 200-year longevity. Greenwich has taken such precautions simply because it could not take any chance allowing its image to be tarnished in any manner.

The presentation frame for the degree is set in pure fine leather produced by the best designers in the country. Greenwich could not think of any other product which is so environmental friendly: Greenwich University is the embodiment of a friendly environment.
